The professional voice of London general practice

LMC Law

LMC Law Limited is a newly established fresh thinking dynamic company. LMC Law has been established by Shanee Baker, formerly Senior Lawyer to the General Practitioners Committee of the BMA and creator and founder of BMA Law.

LMC law only delivers services via experienced healthcare lawyers who have already had firm and historical relationships with the majority of Local Medical Committees (LMCs) and are, therefore, uniquely placed to be able to better understand the needs and functions of LMCs particularly in this new and challenging health environment. We understand the importance of each individual LMC keeping its identity and brand separate and distinct, so above all, we ensure that our service is not diluted as a one size fits all. We will work together with each LMC to create a tailor made service and deal with the particular and sometimes unique issues that arise in each locality.

Our Promise is that we will deliver services to the highest of standards and use all best endeavours to ensure that turnaround times for delivery and completion of work is fast and efficient. Urgent work is given priority and turnaround times where at all possible are within less than a day.
