The professional voice of London general practice

CMT Clarimed Training Ltd

With over a decade's experience in providing high-quality clinical, non-clinical and bespoke in-house training, CMT Clarimed Training particularly specialises in the training and development of GP administration staff. From communication courses for clinical staff conducting difficult conversations with patients and their families to Receptionist Development Programmes, Clarimed courses are delivered both online and face to face. Courses concentrate on communication, both terminology and communication technique. Delegates who have attended courses also have access to a secure resources area on Clarimed's website, which contains further relevant information to support learning.
