Useful information on covid-19 provided by clinical and community experts

Staff at University College London Hospital have compiled a list of useful information provided by clinical experts, the list was last updated on 23 March 2020. Download the document here.

Note: we are passing on this list because it may be useful, we have not checked all the resources listed in it.

We expect to be adding other clinical and community produced resources to this page over the coming days and weeks.
