Managing a remote team module - applications now open

Runs: online, with a taught day on 4 February 2022

Costs: £325 + VAT

This module is suitable for anyone working in a position of management or leadership where members of their team are working remotely.

Professionally accredited by the RCGP and the CPD Standards Office, this module uses a blended learning approach, which consists of four units to be completed over four months.

At the end of the module managers will:

have improved skills to support and run remote teams;

have an understanding of communicating with individuals using video technology;

have an understanding of chairing meetings using video technology, and have an understanding of managing conflict within a remote team and how to reduce the probability of conflict arising.

Please email Karen Piddington if you are interest in more details and booking a place on the course.
